SEAME ASK STRIKE AID FROM WORLD UNION

TRUMAN'S LABOR BILL NOW BOUNCES BACK AT HOUSE; LABOR LEADERS CALLED IN

WASHINGTON, June 3—President Truman's emergency strike control bill came bouncing back to the house today—straight into a rump hearing called to air organized labor's opposition to it.

Sixteen members critical of the measure—both in its original strike-draft form and as modified by the senate—invited four top union chiefs to the unusual 5 p. m. session.

They also called upon all their colleagues to attend the gathering which Rep. De Lacy (D-Wash.) said was designed to "stem all this hysteria."

The house passed the measure 306 to 13 a week ago Saturday less than two hours after it was requested by Mr. Truman.

The senate passed the bill early last Saturday morning.

Invited to testify today are President William Green of the American Federation of Labor; President Philip Murray of the Congress of Industrial Organizations; Secretary-Treasurer A. E. Lyon of the Railway Labor Executives' association, and President Harvey Brown of the International Association of Machinists.

Extends Seizure Powers

As passed by the house, the bill would give the president broad powers to seize essential plants if work stoppages occur and to draft individuals necessary to run them. The senate deleted the draft authority, but left in the power to take over industries.

Both bills require union and management leaders to take "affirmative" action to halt work stoppages in plants seized by the government.

The measure now is awaiting house action again, but speaker Rayburn (D-Texas) said no conclusive decision is expected until at least Thursday.

Mr. Truman told Sen. Radcliffe (D-Mo) Saturday that the senate emasculated his bill.

Those sponsoring today's informal hearing include De Lacy, Rep. Marcantonio (A-N.Y.) and 14 Democrats. Reps. Bailey, Healy and Ke of West Virginia; Celler, Powell and Kilian of New York; Healy and Patterson of California; Kelley, Green and Morgan of Pennsylvania; Bismiller of Wisconsin; Coffee and Savage of Washington.

Meanwhile, the fate of this legislation remained closely tied in with the long-range case labor disputes bill which congress sent to the president last week.

Several administration spokesmen in Capitol Hill have said they expect the president to veto the measure. The author, Rep. Case (R-SD), commented, however, that "it is inconceivable to me" that the chief executive would reject it.

CIO President Murray called upon Mr. Truman yesterday to kill the Case bill. He said in a letter to the president that it would "encourage and increase labor disputes instead of curbing them."

MODIFICATIONS IN ORDER FOR SPAIN ISSUE

U. N. Sub-Committee's Recommendations Due For Dispute

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, June 3—Evidence increased today that efforts would be made in the United Nations Security Council to modify some of the conclusions of a sub-committee report recommending steps for an eventual worldwide diplomatic break with Franco Spain.

The spokesman for one delegation, who did not want to be identified, went so far as to predict that the sub-committee's report would not be approved without some modifications. He declined to say, however, what changes he expected.

Action Due Thursday

The report, which was circulated Saturday after the sub-committee completed a month's investigation of Poland's charges that the Franco regime threatens world peace, will come before the council Thursday for action.

The main recommendation was that the Spanish case be referred to the 51-nation general assembly with a request that the assembly is still in power in September.

This proposal has the support of five members of the council—France, China, Australia, Poland and Brazil—plus possibly others.

Both the United States and Britain have consistently opposed a break with Franco, while Russia has advocated action against Franco but has been against any action which might give more prestige to the assembly at the expense of the Security Council.

Informed quarters said neither the United States nor Britain were likely to resort to the veto, even though they did not approve all the points in the report, but there was no indication what Russia's attitude would be.

Australian Delegate Herbert V. Evatt, chairman of the sub-committee, announced last night that Brazilian Delegate Pedro Leao Veloso had been taken to the committee's main recommendation. Veloso had been the only one of the five members who had not approved the proposed procedure.

SENATE PONDS A-BOMB CONTROL

WASHINGTON, June 3—The fight between the scientists and the military over domestic control of atomic energy shifted to the house today with the scientists apparently holding their senate-won advantage.

The main battle will be fought in the house military committee, which already is on record in favor of giving the army a controlling voice.

Chairman May (D-Ky.) said he expected the bill passed Saturday by the senate setting up a five-man civilian control commission to be referred to his committee probably next week.

"The committee may decide to substitute some of the senate provisions for our own bill," May told reporters. "But I believe it will insist on giving the military representation on the commission instead of leaving it entirely to the professors."

VFW GROUPS URGE VETERANS' BONUSES

TOLEDO, June 3—Use of Ohio Sales tax revenue to pay a state bonus to World War II veterans was urged here yesterday by 560 representatives of district Veterans of Foreign Wars posts, auxiliaries and affiliates.

Harold G. Skinner, department legislative chairman, said the conference proposed a payment of $10 for each month of service in the United States; $15 for each month of overseas service and $5 extra for each month of overseas service for veterans having combat disabilities.

Famed Pitcher Ill

WASHINGTON, June 3—"Condition unchanged" was the report today on Walter Johnson, seriously ill with a brain tumor.

Physicians at Georgetown hospital said yesterday that the one-time pitching ace had "lost ground in the last 24 hours."

Toll Record Smashed

SANDUSKY, June 3—Officials of the Sandusky bay bridge reported today that more than 6,000 vehicles passed over the span Memorial day, about doubling the mark on the holiday of 1945, when 3,200 were clocked. The bridge is expected to be toll free later this year.

"Atomic Age" Will Progress Gradually, Dr. Kettering Says

ALLIANCE, June 3—Evolution of industry, transportation and international affairs through use of atomic energy will be a "gradual and natural process," says Dr. Charles F. Kettering, noted inventor, vice president and research director of General Motors Corp.

In an address at the Centennial commencement of Mount Union college yesterday, Dr. Kettering told 62 graduates he would "insure" against the dangers of atomic energy "at a very low rate."

He declared the atomic age "is not coming on us with any more sudden impact than did the automobile age 50 years ago. It will be a gradual and natural process."

"The world's progress in the next century depends on imaginations directed by sane points of view," asserted Dr. Kettering.

Freedom of the press, radio, speech and of worship—these are what we must have, despite the fact that they might be abused. But the abuse would be insignificant compared with the damage done by our not having them."

TWO EXAMS NEEDED TO BRING SALEM POLICE FORCE TO REQUIRED STRENGTH

The vacancy on Salem's police force, created Saturday by the resignation of Police Chief Ralph N. Stoffer following a shooting episode in Deerfield Thursday, will entail civil service examinations to fill at least two posts.

Although Safety Director Curt Phillips has not formally requested an eligibility list to fill the now-vacant positions of patrolman and police chief, such a request to the three-man commission is expected this week.

Will Name Substitute

Phillips said today that a substitute patrolman will be appointed to bring the force to its legal six-man strength until an eligibility list is made ready by the commission for a permanent appointment.

City ordinance provides salaries for a chief, a captain and four patrolmen. Stoffer's resignation leaves the force one man under full strength, with Capt. Nerr Gaunt as acting police chief.

The commission will conduct an examination, at the request of Phillips and Mayor R. R. Johnson, and following the exam will certify the three highest men, in point of grades, to the safety director and mayor, who in turn will make the appointment.

No such eligibility lists exist, as the men declared eligible remain so for just one year after the date of certification to the mayor.

Consequently, an examination will be required immediately for the position of police chief. The patrolman examination is open to anyone, while the police chief exam is restricted to members of the present force.

Salem's force includes: Capt. Gaunt and Patrolmen James Has-

Alumni Scholarship Fund Receives $1400 In Three Donations

The scholarship fund of the Salem High School Alumni association was increased by donations totaling $1,400 at the annual banquet Friday night.

The class of '46 gave $800, the presentation having been made by President Danny Smith.

Judge Joel H. Sharp made the presentation of $500 from Mrs. Percy Eastman of Burlington, Ia. This came as a memorial to her husband's father, William Eastman, a member of the Salem school board in 1881.

The third donation came when Miss Olga E. Solberg read a letter and presented the association a check for $100 from Dr. Mary H. White of Cleveland and Miss Alice MacMillan, members of the class of '78.

It was Miss MacMillan who first thought of this "gift of remembrance," as she called it, and her class of '78 proposed the scholarship fund and gave it its first $100. That was on the occasion of the 25th anniversary of the class, each of the 18 members contributing to the fund.

Miss MacMillan, now an invalid at her home on E. State st., took over as the MacMillan bookshop the 68 years ago upon the death of her father, just prior to the time she was to be graduated from High school. The store, started by her father, J. MacMillan, has been operated for nearly 100 years.

Dr. Mary White taught for a number of years in the Salem schools before going to Cleveland to study medicine. She began the practice of medicine in that city about the turn of the century, when there were few women in the profession, and has continued ever since, going to her office every day.

Flood Damages Up In Pennsylvania

(By Associated Press)

PHILADELPHIA, June 3—Flood waters, fed by 20 hours of continuous rains, receded today after hitting many portions of Pennsylvania—flooding homes and stores, disrupting transportation, communications and industrial activity, and killing at least three persons.

The floods—second in the Keystone state within a week—claimed the lives of an 11-year-old Cub scout and an unidentified man in the Philadelphia area. A nine-year-old girl was drowned in Western Pennsylvania.

The rain-swollen Schuylkill river and its tributary streams boiled over as the weather bureau recorded the second heaviest June rainfall in its history. Only in 1935 was it heavier.

Flood waters inundated Manayunk, a section of Northwest Philadelphia, covered parts of Fairmount park—second largest city park in the nation—and halted Reading company and Baltimore and Ohio trains.

There was no official estimate of damage.

The "Valley of Bungalows," bordering Perkiomen creek in nearby Collegeville, was hardest hit by the waves of rushing water.

Robert Montgomery, 11, was swept to his death when a rescue rowboat capsized. He was one of 33 Cub scouts marooned on a little island in the muddy Perkiomen. The others were rescued by the quick-thinking of two Collegeville firemen who improvised an "overhead rope" tied to a tree on the island and a telephone pole on the mainland, 100 yards away.

Collision Injuries Fatal

RAVENNA, June 3—Injuries received in an automobile collision caused the death yesterday of Clair Silvernail, 64, of Garrettsville. His wife, Belle, 60, also injured in the accident near Garrettsville Wednesday, was reported in fair condition at Robinson Memorial hospital.

ONE INJURED IN AIRPLANE CRASH

Raymond J. Gieb, 36, of Canton, was treated for lacerations of the chin, left eye and forehead last evening in Salem City hospital after crash-landing his plane in a field, one mile south of Guilford lake, when the motor failed.

A passenger, Donald Kempf, also of Canton, escaped injury.

Gieb told state highway patrolmen that he and Kempf were en route from New Philadelphia to Guilford, where they planned to visit friends.

Dairy School Slumps

Boyle Finds Sweden "Cash And Carry Wonderland" Now

BY HAL BOYLE

STOCKHOLM — Sweden is the Shangri-la of Europe today, a cash-and-carry wonderland through whose well-filled show windows a hungry continent looks in awe.

This is the country that said "no" to war, and now is reaping the peacetime payoff. Its manpower is undiminished, its dwellings are whole and its industries are carrying on the "business as usual" policy Sweden has followed through more than a century and a quarter of pacifism.

And the people of other lands who once cursed her for failing to join in the battle against Nazism are standing in line to buy her products. They do it through necessity rather than desire.

New Vacationland

Stockholm has become the summer vacation capital for every tourist from Britain to Bulgaria who has the funds to travel.

The famed scenic attractions of this "Venice of the north," however, are less of a lure than what can be bought here. Visitors complain that their governments won't allow them to bring along enough money to purchase all they want. All who have Swedish friends or business connections here borrow to the hilt.

It is a rich fare that awaits them. Meat, butter and bread are rationed but if you run out of points, restaurant waiters don't take the situation too seriously. They still bring on the food.

For two to three dollars you can get a meal at one of the finest restaurants in Stockholm consisting of a shrimp salad, steak, potatoes, peas, tomatoes and asparagus, ice cream topped with fresh strawberries, and good coffee.

The prices also include a martini, a glass of schnapps and a large mug of beer, and you don't have to kiddy

Board of Education's Vacancy May Be Filled

The Salem Board of Education is expected to name a successor to Superintendent A. E. Beardmore, president, who resigned recently because of ill health, at its meeting tonight.

Beardmore, who began his second term as a board member last January, tendered his resignation May 3 in a letter to the board, saying that in view of his health he did not feel that he was capable of filling the post of president.

BUILDING WORK STOPPED IN 3 OHIO COUNTIES

4,500 AFL Carpenters Go On Strike In Greater Cleveland Areas

CLEVELAND, June 3—Construction was brought to a virtual standstill in Cuyahoga, Lake and Geauga counties today by a strike of some 4,500 AFL carpenters.

The workers, who are demanding a 35-cent hourly wage boost, failed to report for duty at 7 a. m. the AFL-Carpenters district council reported.

Meanwhile, the AFL-Building Trades council said no AFL workers in the building trades would report on jobs where the carpenters have struck.

Charges Bargaining Failure

Carl J. Schwarzer, president of the AFL-Carpenters district council, said the union's wage negotiating committee ordered the strike to begin today because area contractors allegedly "won't bargain collectively."

James V. Funare, secretary of the Home Builders association of Greater Cleveland, said a walkout would immediately curtail construction operations on 2,000 Cuyahoga county homes worth more than $20,000,000.

Schwarzer reported the carpenters demanded a $2-hourly wage rate, retroactive to last March 1, and passed strike decision yesterday when contractors "stalled" in considering a union compromise offer of a 25-cent increase to $1.90 hourly.

A wage increase offer of 12 1/2 cents hourly by the contractors previously was rejected by unionists, he said.

The union official said the Carpenters district council and the union membership voted several weeks ago authorizing the wage negotiating committee to take strike action, and asserted a 30-day strike notice under provisions of the Smith-Connally act expired in mid-May.

Albert P. Dalton, executive secretary of the Building Trades Employers association, declared concerning the union's "stalling" charge:

"The wage negotiating committee of the union came to my office only last Friday and presented the union's new demand for $1.90 an hour, retroactive to March 1. I told them I would meet with the contractors' committee and call them later."

"I didn't get a chance to call the union until the next day, Saturday. I asked the union officials if we could have a meeting this coming Thursday of the carpenters' and contractors' joint arbitration committee... but I was told Thursday probably would be too late."

District 6 embraces Ohio and four counties in West Virginia.

INTERNATIONAL ASPECT ENTERS NEGOTIATIONS

Blast President In Bid For Assistance From World Federation

WASHINGTON, June 3—America's maritime labor crisis took on a broader international aspect today.

CIO maritime leaders, loosing still another critical blast at President Truman, appealed simultaneously to workers in other lands for help in their shipping strike scheduled June 15.

In this atmosphere, wage and hour negotiations moved slowly along at the labor department. CIO unions and ship operators prepared to meet again today at noon.

Meanwhile, Harry Bridges and Joseph Curran, kingpins of the CIO's maritime unions, sent a cablegram to the World Federation of Trade unions at Paris.

Say Settlement Jeopardized

In that message they renewed their criticism of Mr. Truman's assertion that he will operate the merchant ships with the armed forces if necessary. They said the president had "seriously jeopardized" the possibilities for a peaceful settlement.

And they asked the WFTU in the event of a strike to declare any merchant vessels manned by the U. S. government to be "scab ships." They also asked for any other help the WFTU could give.

The CIO is affiliated with the WFTU (the AFL isn't). Also affiliated are millions of union members in Russia, Britain, France and other countries. The WFTU executive council has a meeting scheduled in Moscow on June 16-18.

Bridges and Curran are co-chairmen of the "committee for maritime unity." This organization was formed three years ago by six CIO unions and one independent union. Four of the CIO unions and the independent group have voted a joint strike.

The most important unions in the group are Bridges' Longshoremen—strong on the west coast—and Curran's National Maritime union, which includes seamen of Atlantic, Gulf and Great Lakes ports.

Up to now, all the negotiations at the labor department have involved the National Maritime union's demands on the Atlantic and Gulf ship operators. The union has demanded a 40-hour week for seamen—with overtime beyond 40 hours—and basic wage increases ranging from 22 cents an hour to 35.

The seamen now work from 56 to 63 hours at sea and 44 hours in port.

Government "seizure" of the ships might have little meaning, since the government already owns around 80 percent of the merchant marine fleet.

Holiday Weekend Death Toll High

(By Associated Press)

Although 159 persons were killed in traffic accidents during the four-day holiday, the number fell far short of the national safety council's forecast of 329.

A total of 287 persons met violent deaths in the four days which ended last midnight, compared with 327 in the last four-day Memorial day observance, in 1944.

Drownings accounted for 74 fatalities.

Pennsylvania's toll of 37 was more than double any other state. Parts of Pennsylvania were washed by floods, creating hazardous driving conditions, and 19 deaths result from traffic accidents. Eleven persons drowned.

California had the next highest toll—18, including 11 traffic fatalities. Michigan had 17 deaths, and Illinois and Ohio 16 each.

Search for Missing Son Of Dayton City Manager

PHILADELPHIA, June 3—A police and navy search continued today for Robert Manning Echelberger, 26-year-old son of the city manager of Dayton, O., reported missing from a yacht on which he had been a guest.

Planes and boats combed the Delaware river all day yesterday but failed to find any trace of the man.

Echelberger was reported missing by Frank M. Piasecki of Lansdowne, Pa., on whose boat he had been a passenger. Piasecki was quoted by Delaware county police as saying the Ohio man—recently discharged from the navy—fell overboard.

If Eventually, Why Not Now?

The Case bill which awaits President Truman's approval or veto is a test of the executive leadership put on display during the railroad strike.

Mr. Truman expressed his leadership on that occasion with two speeches, one directly to the public, the other a special message to a joint session of Congress. In these speeches, he seemed to be saying that he had been pushed as far as he would go by organized labor tactics which were harmful to public welfare. He appealed to the members of striking railroad unions to return voluntarily to their jobs, under the threat of federal action if they didn't. When they didn't, he asked for emergency power to deal with such situations, and the striking railroaders, having struck against government and flouted its authority, were ordered back to work by their leaders, a settlement with the operators having been reached meanwhile. This settlement was on terms which the union leaders previously had requested, before Mr. Truman revealed that he was prepared to ask for drastic authority to deal with strikes against the government.

In his message to Congress, Mr. Truman asked for permanent labor legislation, to be passed after a study of the subject. He ignored legislative proposals pending in Congress—proposals which the House already had adopted and the Senate was considering. He proposed, instead, that nothing be done at this time, other than immediate passage of the emergency authority he had asked for. Congress thereupon turned the tables, holding up the emergency authority and giving him, instead, its version of permanent legislation, the Case bill.

The provisions of this bill deal with general problems of labor relations, the same problems that Mr. Truman had in mind when he spoke of permanent legislation. The emergency authority he requested deals with the specific problem of forcing labor to accept responsibility in an industry seized by the government and has no bearing on general problems. It is reasonable to suppose that the Case bill's provisions are identical in most respects with the provisions which would be submitted after further study of the subject of labor law. As submitted to Mr. Truman, the bill contains nothing which has not been discussed day in and day out for upward of a decade.

To be sure, the Case bill is opposed bitterly by labor executives, for the obvious reason that it would restrict them in the use of some of the powers that have been producing industrial chaos. But the opposition of labor leaders is not peculiar to this particular bill. They oppose any proposal which threatens to restrain them. They have a healthy fear of the possibility that legislation may make them personally responsible for their acts, as was revealed in the transcript of conversation between the leaders of the two striking railroad unions and the White House Messrs. Whitney and Johnston were extremely concerned with what might happen to them under the Smith-Connally Act—and with being promised immunity from prosecution by the president of the United States, certainly one of the saddest proofs of the low estate to which government has fallen in its dealings with labor bosses.

Mr. Truman has before him the beginning of the permanent legislation he said he wanted. The question is whether he wants it. If he wants it later—after the 1946 congressional elections—he should want it now. If he doesn't want it now, the chances are he was only spoofing when he said he wanted it later.

Time to Call the Firemen?

The wisps of smoke curling out of the foreign policy structure of the United States have formed a climax. Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., United States delegate to the United Nations, has offered his resignation to President Truman. Where there is enough smoke to bring about a resignation at the policy level there is fire somewhere.

The public, in the absence of official information, will guess about the location of the fire, and the guessing inevitably will be concentrated on Secretary of State Byrnes. Mr. Byrnes has been the spokesman and apparently the originator of the Truman administration's foreign policy. Whatever Mr. Stettinius may disagree with, therefore, probably amounts to a disagreement with the secretary of state and, ultimately, with Mr. Truman, who has made it plain that Mr. Byrnes has his complete confidence.

It is Mr. Byrnes, in other words, who is put on the spot by the Stettinius resignation, because it is evident that Mr. Byrnes now presides personally over American foreign policy. If his decisions have forced Mr. Stettinius to call a showdown because of some conflict with the latter's responsibility as United Nations delegate, it is time to call the firemen to deal with the blaze that generates so much suspicious smoke.

Commencement

Young ladies and gentlemen of the graduating classes of 1946, we come to this happy occasion full of apologies and misgivings.

We feel—we who have planned and paid for your education, now partly completed, that some of you have been misled accidentally into believing your education is better than it really is.

There are a few things that have happened too recently to be printed in your textbooks, or to be digested by your teachers. There are a number of things, moreover, that your teachers and all the rest of us—your elders—have been trying to digest for a long time and, because of our difficulty, never have appeared in your classroom instruction. One of these things is adversity.

We of the generation which soon will be passing never devised a formula for dealing with adversity. When it happened, which was more frequently than we liked to think it would when we were completing our own educations and looking for new worlds to conquer, we improvised solutions. We submit that some of them must have been pretty good; at least we survived. We grant that some of them were very bad, you will learn more about our failures as you grow older.

Unfortunately, whatever we did, both good and bad, we were unable to eliminate adversity. To whatever extent, therefore, that your textbooks and teachers may have made it appear that we did eliminate it, this is to forewarn you that it simply isn't so. In brief, we are turning you out into a world that is in a mess—a world that has made a fetish of security but isn't finding any because the harder it hunts the less it finds. That is the unvarnished truth of the matter, graduates, and if you will keep it in mind you will know what we mean by the time you look into the bright and shining faces of your own children.

So, without further apology, here are your diplomas for work well done and our best wishes for the work that remains to be done. You can count on us for the lessons of our experience but the important lessons are the ones you are about to learn for yourselves.

Skin Disorder in Children

BY HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

THERE are many minor disorders which nearly all children will outgrow, and eczema is one of them, but it is a discomfort for the mother whose baby is afflicted with this itchy, irritating and disgusting rash to tell her that if she waits two, three, or four years, the condition will most likely clear up of itself.

She wants relief from sleepless nights; she wants something done for her child, whose constant scratching only makes his rash that much more painful; she wants the eczema that mars her baby's appearance and ruins his temper banished and she wants results now, not sometime in the future.

Bitterly Disappointed
In the past, she has often been bitterly disappointed, for eczema is difficult to treat, but now, according to Dr. George D. Johnson of South Carolina, a new treatment offers hope of a speedy relief for his miserable condition.

Just what causes the eczema is not definitely known, although it would appear that these infants are allergic or over-sensitive to something in the diet in many cases. It is frequent practice to ease such foods as eggs, tomatoes, fruit juice and wheat out of the diet. Some babies are sensitive to cow's milk, so that a different type of milk is necessary. Ointments containing tar are often effective.

Dr. Johnson has attempted treatment of a number of these babies with a preparation containing hisamine and a protein substance. Hisamine is a substance formed in the body as a result of the reaction of an over-sensitive person to the substances to which he is sensitive. The product which he used was injected under the skin. He started by injecting a very tiny amount into the skin, and noting if a reaction occurred, such as the formation of a red swelling at the point of inoculation.

No Swelling

If there was no swelling, the dose injected into the skin was doubled after thirty minutes. Then, at the next visit, an injection was made under the skin and this was repeated three times a week, as a rule, the dosage being gradually increased. Only a few reactions occurred and these were not severe.

It was not found that this treatment cured all cases. However, in 18 infants it was found so helpful that it would appear advisable that it be given further trial, particularly where older methods fail to bring improvement.

Letters to Dr. Bundesen should be addressed in care of 235 E. 45th st., New York City.

Taft Would Take GOP Presidential Nomination

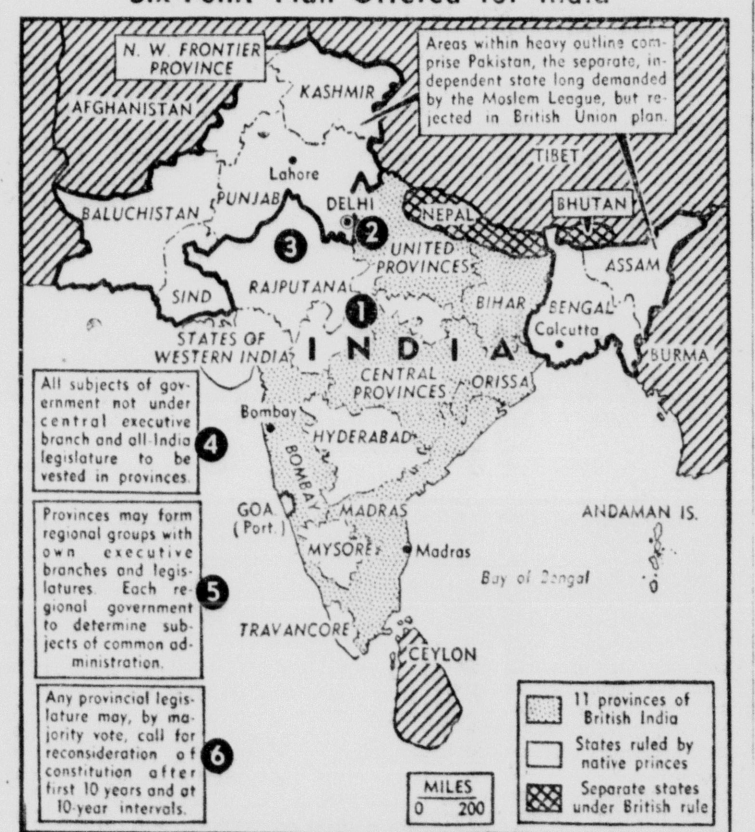

WASHINGTON, June 3—He isn't a candidate, he doesn't expect the nomination, but—

Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) would run for president if selected. "Anyone would take it if nominated," Ohio's senior senator replied last night to a Mutual Broadcasting system program question. "If you were nominated for the presidency in 1948 would you take it and run?"

Attacks by the CIO-PAC and other groups, he asserted, had caused him to hire a full-time publicity man recently. The hiring had no relation to any ambition to be his party's 1948 candidate, the Ohioan declared, adding:

"I am not a candidate and I don't expect any such results."

Six-Point Plan Offered for India

Map shows graphically the six-point plan for a Federal Union of India proposed by Great Britain's three-man cabinet mission. Numbers on map refer to (1) Federal Union would include both the 11 provinces of British India and the 562 self-governing Indian states. Union government to control foreign affairs, defense and communications, with power to raise money for those purposes; (2) A central executive branch and an all-India legislature. Majority of whole legislature needed to pass on any major question and also majority of each of two major parties—the Congress Party, predominantly Hindu, and the Moslem League; (3) The princes' states will retain all powers not ceded to the central union.

If Eventually, Why Not Now?

The Case bill which awaits President Truman's approval or veto is a test of the executive leadership put on display during the railroad strike.

Mr. Truman expressed his leadership on that occasion with two speeches, one directly to the public, the other a special message to a joint session of Congress. In these speeches, he seemed to be saying that he had been pushed as far as he would go by organized labor tactics which were harmful to public welfare. He appealed to the members of striking railroad unions to return voluntarily to their jobs, under the threat of federal action if they didn't. When they didn't, he asked for emergency power to deal with such situations, and the striking railroaders, having struck against government and flouted its authority, were ordered back to work by their leaders, a settlement with the operators having been reached meanwhile. This settlement was on terms which the union leaders previously had requested, before Mr. Truman revealed that he was prepared to ask for drastic authority to deal with strikes against the government.

In his message to Congress, Mr. Truman asked for permanent labor legislation, to be passed after a study of the subject. He ignored legislative proposals pending in Congress—proposals which the House already had adopted and the Senate was considering. He proposed, instead, that nothing be done at this time, other than immediate passage of the emergency authority he had asked for. Congress thereupon turned the tables, holding up the emergency authority and giving him, instead, its version of permanent legislation, the Case bill.

The provisions of this bill deal with general problems of labor relations, the same problems that Mr. Truman had in mind when he spoke of permanent legislation. The emergency authority he requested deals with the specific problem of forcing labor to accept responsibility in an industry seized by the government and has no bearing on general problems. It is reasonable to suppose that the Case bill's provisions are identical in most respects with the provisions which would be submitted after further study of the subject of labor law. As submitted to Mr. Truman, the bill contains nothing which has not been discussed day in and day out for upward of a decade.

To be sure, the Case bill is opposed bitterly by labor executives, for the obvious reason that it would restrict them in the use of some of the powers that have been producing industrial chaos. But the opposition of labor leaders is not peculiar to this particular bill. They oppose any proposal which threatens to restrain them. They have a healthy fear of the possibility that legislation may make them personally responsible for their acts, as was revealed in the transcript of conversation between the leaders of the two striking railroad unions and the White House. Messrs. Whitney and Johnston were extremely concerned with what might happen to them under the Smith-Connally Act—and with being promised immunity from prosecution by the president of the United States, certainly one of the saddest proofs of the low estate to which government has fallen in its dealings with labor bosses.

Mr. Truman has before him the beginning of the permanent legislation he said he wanted. The question is whether he wants it. If he wants it later—after the 1946 congressional elections—he should want it now. If he doesn't want it now, the chances are he was only spoofing when he said he wanted it later.

Time to Call the Firemen?

The wisps of smoke curling out of the foreign policy structure of the United States have formed a climax. Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., United States delegate to the United Nations, has offered his resignation to President Truman. Where there is enough smoke to bring about a resignation at the policy level there is fire somewhere.

The public, in the absence of official information, will guess about the location of the fire, and, the guessing inevitably will be concentrated on Secretary of State Byrnes. Mr. Byrnes has been the spokesman and apparently the originator of the Truman administration's foreign policy. Whatever Mr. Stettinius may disagree with, therefore, probably amounts to a disagreement with the secretary of state and, ultimately, with Mr. Truman, who has made it plain that Mr. Byrnes has his complete confidence.

It is Mr. Byrnes, in other words, who is put on the spot by the Stettinius resignation, because it is evident that Mr. Byrnes now presides personally over American foreign policy. If his decisions have forced Mr. Stettinius to call a showdown because of some conflict with the latter's responsibility as United Nations delegate, it is time to call the firemen to deal with the blaze that generates so much suspicious smoke.

Commencement

Young ladies and gentlemen of the graduating classes of 1946, we come to this happy occasion full of apologies and misgivings.

We feel—we who have planned and paid for your education, now partly completed, that some of you have been misled accidentally into believing your education is better than it really is.

There are a few things that have happened too recently to be printed in your textbooks, or to be digested by your teachers. There are a number of things, moreover, that your teachers and all the rest of us—your elders—have been trying to digest for a long time and, because of our difficulty, never have appeared in your classroom instruction. One of these things is adversity.

We of the generation which soon will be passing never devised a formula for dealing with adversity. When it happened, which was more frequently than we liked to think it would when we were completing our own educations and looking for new worlds to conquer, we improvised solutions. We submit that some of them must have been pretty good; at least we survived. We grant that some of them were very bad; you will learn more about our failures as you grow older.

Unfortunately, whatever we did, both good and bad, we were unable to eliminate adversity. To whatever extent, therefore, that your textbooks and teachers may have made it appear that we did eliminate it, this is to forewarn you that it simply isn't so. In brief, we are turning you out into a world that is in a mess—a world that has made a fetish of security but isn't finding any because the harder it hunts the less it finds. That is the unvarnished truth of the matter, graduates, and if you will keep it in mind you will know what we mean by the time you look into the bright and shining faces of your own children.

So, without further apology, here are your diplomas for work well done and our best wishes for the work that remains to be done. You can count on us for the lessons of our experience but the important lessons are the ones you are about to learn for yourselves.

Election Will Test French Reds' Power

PARIS, June 3—A clear indication of the strength of the post-war Communist trend in France is expected to emerge from tomorrow's empire-wide elections to choose a new constituent assembly.

Two major factors put the Communists squarely in the election spotlight:

1. The American loan, which some observers believe may have cost the Communists seats and benefited the Socialists, whose leader, Leon Blum, negotiated the credits, announced this week in Washington.

2. The bitter pre-election campaign which the Socialists have waged against the Communists, charging that the Communists were an "undemocratically-organized party which follows Soviet policy too closely."

An estimated 20,000,000 French citizens will vote to choose 583 members of the new constituent assembly from more than 3,000 candidates. The assembly will sit for a maximum of seven months to draw up a new constitution.

The use of parking meters has decreased the average parking time of an automobile on city streets, according to the Municipal Finance Officers' Association.

GOVERNMENT TAKES HURRIED ACTION TO MAKE SOFT COAL CONTRACT WORK

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, June 3.—The government acted promptly today to get into effect the health and safety provisions of the new soft coal contract, which John L. Lewis' union has won for its soft coal miners after the prolonged bituminous coal strike.

Working Fast
The drive to get all clauses of the new contract into operation temporarily overshadowed the government's full endorsement of the contract between Lewis and the government.

"I wonder how many of you know that the United States is the only civilized country that does not have a health and welfare fund for its miners."

The welfare and retirement fund will be financed by payments of 5 cents a ton on all coal produced. On the safety issue Lewis' miners long have demanded a federal cure. In 1941 congress passed a federal safety act, but without enforcement provisions. It merely authorized the bureau of mines to make inspections and recommendations. Actual enforcement of safety standards remained in the hands of the coal-producing states.

Under the federal code to be issued under the Krug-Lewis contract, bureau of mines inspectors will make periodic investigations. Krug, as coal mines administrator, will "take appropriate action" in cases of violations.

The social gains, largely overlooked in the discussions of how much more money the miners will get, also give the workers the full benefit of workmen's compensation and occupational disease laws of the various states. In some states, the operators have had an option as to participation in these programs.

Veteran Apprentice Program Endangered

COLUMBUS, June 3.—The state government and veterans administration will act Wednesday to stop abuses of the apprentice training program for veterans.

Gov. Frank J. Lausche said today that he believed a number of newly established private schools and some employers were collecting money from the federal government without giving veterans the service to which they were entitled.

He will meet with Ralph H. Stone, deputy administrator of the VA; Dr. Clyde Hissong, state director of Education, and Joseph R. Strobel, state director of vocational education, to devise a program for combating this situation.

"Unless the offenders are eliminated," the governor told newsmen, "the veteran instead of being trained in a given profession or occupation will find that his allowances have been exhausted without his having received the training he needs."

Weddings Fill Calendar As June "Bridal" Season Opens

O'Connell-Yakubek Vows Exchanged In Church Rites

An embankment of palms and ferns centered with a large bouquet of mixed flowers and lighted by the soft glow of white candles in tall seven-branch candelabra made a lovely setting for the ceremony when Miss Nancy Jane O'Connell of Cleveland st. became the bride of John Yakubek of Prospect st. at 7:30 p. m. Saturday in the First Baptist church.

Rev. R. E. Mosher, the pastor, officiated in the double ring ceremony.

The nuptial music included three piano solos, "The World Is Waiting For the Sunrise," "O Promise Me" and "Estrita," played by Melvin Earley of Cleveland, brother-in-law of the bride, and two vocal solos, "Because" and "I Love You Truly" sung by William Earley of Cleveland, nephew of the bride. Mr. Earley also played the traditional wedding marches.

Comprise Bridal Party

Kenneth O'Connell, brother of the bride, Samuel Rea, Paul Scullion and Roy Barnes ushered and led the bridal procession. Miss Betty Earley of Cleveland, niece of the bride, junior bridesmaid, came next. She was followed by Miss Rose Yakubek, sister of the groom, who preceded Miss Sara Todd of Columbiana, maid of honor. The bride was escorted to the altar by her father, who gave her in marriage. They met the groom and his best man, Marc Yakubek, a brother, at the altar.

The bride was charming in a gown of white satin and net. It was styled with a sweetheart neckline, three-quarter length sleeves and a fitted bodice attached to a full skirt, over tulle, trimmed in applique flowers.

Her long veil fell from a ribbon cap with a seed pearl tiara. She carried a large bouquet of white calla lilies tied with white tulle.

Miss Todd was attired in a yellow net gown over tulle. It was fashioned with a fitted bodice, drop shoulder and wide ruffle, attached to a full skirt. She carried a bouquet of Talisman roses tied with yellow tulle.

Miss Yakubek was gowned in blue dotted net over tulle, styled like the maid of honor. She carried a bouquet of pink roses tied with pink tulle.

Miss Earley's gown was created of white net with a large pink dot over pink tulle. It was fashioned with a fitted bodice, square neckline, puff sleeves and a full skirt. She carried a bouquet of Talisman roses tied with yellow tulle. The attendants all wore an attractive headpiece of flowers.

The bride gave her attendants single strands of pearl beads, while the groom gave the ushers and best man cigarette lighters and small knives.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. O'Connell wore a black dress with braided trimming and white accessories. Mrs. Yakubek was costumed in a black and white print with harmonizing accessories. Both wore corsage of white gardenias.

A reception was held at the bride's home for the families. The refreshment table centered with a tiered wedding cake, was made attractive with a large bouquet of mock orange blossoms and tall white tapers in crystal candelabra. Misses Marion Antonio and Mildred and Phoebe Anderson assisted in serving.

Mrs. Yakubek, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles O'Connell, is a graduate of Salem High school. She is employed in the editorial office of The Salem News.

Mr. Yakubek, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Yakubek, was graduated from Salem High school. A discharged veteran, he is employed by the Mullins Mfg. Corp.

The couple left Saturday night on a honeymoon trip. For traveling the bride wore a grey pin stripe suit with white accessories and a gardenia corsage.

Upon their return they will reside temporarily with her parents. Out of town guests were from Chester, W. Va., Cleveland, Niles, Alliance and Columbiana.

Leland Taylor showed colored films taken of the congregation on Mother's day.

Refreshments were provided by members of the Helen Brudery class, and served by members of the Junior choir.

Mr. Regal, teacher of history and hygiene, in Salem Junior High school for 19 years, organized and directed the daily Junior High school orchestra. He also directed the Salem High school orchestra for four years. He is chairman of the music committee for Salem Youth for Christ.

The Regals entertained 47 relatives at dinner yesterday. Among the guests were Mrs. Florence Regal and daughter, Amy, and son, Vernon, of Butler, Pa., and Homer Regal of New Cumberland, W. Va.

The bride wore a handsome gown of white satin and net. It was fashioned with a satin bodice, sweetheart neckline, long sleeves pointed at the wrist and a full skirt, over marquisette, which ended in a brush train. Her finger-ring veil was held in place by a halo bonnet with seed pearl trim.

Methodist Church Setting For Stoudt-Greenisen Vows

A June wedding which attracted wide interest was solemnized at 4:30 p. m. Sunday in the First Methodist church when Miss Ruth Stoudt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Stoudt of N. Broadway, became the bride of Ralph H. Greenisen, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Greenisen of S. Broadway.

Rev. Carl Asmus of Norwalk, formerly of Salem, heard the exchange of vows in the double ring ceremony.

The altar, beautifully decorated with white orange blossoms, palms and ferns, and flanked with white candles in tall seven-branch candelabra, made a beautiful setting for the service.

Proceeding the ceremony, Homer S. Taylor, church organist, offered a program of wedding music as follows:

Musical Prelude
"Serenade" (Drigo), "I Love Thee" (Grieg), "Dedication" (Schumann), "At Dawning" (Cadmans), "During the Ceremony" (Barnby) and "Eternal Love" (Barnby) (Dykes). He was accompanied by Mrs. Wilbur Spalding, who sang "I'll Walk Beside You" (Murray), "Because" (Händel), and "I Love You Truly" (Bond). While the couple knelt at the altar, Mrs. Spalding sang "The Lord's Prayer" (Mottet).

The bridal chorus from Lohengrin heralded the approach of the bride procession and Mendelssohn's wedding march was used for the recessional.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a lovely gown of white slipper satin and marquisette. The fitted bodice, decorated with embroidery, had a high neckline and long sleeves pointed at the wrist. The full marquisette skirt ended in a court train. Her illusion veil fell from a bonnet of net and satin. She carried an arm bouquet of white roses, sweetpeas and stephanotis.

Miss Kathryn Bretz of New Watford, maid of honor, was gowned in a creation of white net over tulle. She carried an arm bouquet of yellow roses and wore a matching flower arrangement in her hair.

The bridesmaids, Miss Joyce Loran of Mentor, and Mrs. Lorman Montgomery of Massillon, were dressed in white. Their bouquets and headpieces were of red roses.

Misses Joann Walton and Jean Lanpher of Lakewood, cousins of the bride, junior bridesmaids, appeared in white dotted net dresses over tulle. They carried bouquets of sweetpeas.

Robert Good of Cincinnati was best man. Charles Kelsch of Cincinnati; Ralph Perkins of Ashland and Galen Greenisen and George Ulrich of Salem ushered.

Mrs. Stoudt, the bride's mother, was costumed in a beige dress with brown braid trim and matching accessories and wore a corsage of yellow roses. Mrs. Greenisen, the groom's mother, wore a black dress with white trimming and white accessories and a corsage of red roses.

The bride presented her attendants gold compact and gold brace-

Endres-Gross Have A-1 Seeds, Plants for Gardens

It does not take much space nor work to grow a small garden that, when taken care of, will supply fresh vegetables for home use with enough for canning purposes.

Perhaps the greatest importance is to have good seed that is adapted to the climate and soil conditions of this vicinity. Alden Gross of Endres and Gross, florists, is trained to give correct advice regarding the proper varieties to grow and sell seeds and plants for trans-planting that will give results if care is given to the young growing plants. Right now is the ideal time to plant most of the vegetable main crop and to prolong the harvest time. A few weeks of several varieties that will mature before killing frosts in the fall.

If you are a novice at gardening, ask with Mr. Gross and he will give you much advice that will help you grow a garden that your neighbors will envy.

R. M. MURRAY is a man with a keen sense of humor. With an acute housing shortage throughout the country, Murray, top photo, can still smile as he sits amid the debris of his trailer home which was picked up by a storm that swept through San Antonio, Tex., and set down again in a not too gentle manner. Among the damage, which was estimated at between three and five million dollars, were the three planes, lower photo, which were destroyed at Kelly Field, Texas. Thirty more planes, shops, hangars and office buildings were damaged at the field by the winds which reached a velocity of more than 100 miles an hour.

Inability To Win At Home Is Making It Tough For Cardinals

Brooklyn Picks Up 2 On Leaders As Giants Spill St. Louis Twice Yesterday

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The St. Louis Cardinals, pre-season favorites in the National league, may wind up among the also-rans because of their inability to win at home.

Including yesterday's double loss to the New York Giants, which dropped them three and a half games behind pace-setting Brooklyn, the Cardinals have won only six of 15 games at Sportsman's park—a percentage of 40, and fully 190 points below their over-all pace.

Never has a pennant winner lost a majority of its home games. The three-time Cardinal champions of 1922-24, for instance, won 172 home games against 60 defeats for a .741 percentage. In '44 they grabbed 50 of 77 home engagements for a phenomenal .779 average.

Failure of the Cards to win at home has the baseball sages puzzled since the Cardinals have been in the short of sensational on the road where they've triumphed in 17 of 24 contests.

Yesterday's twin setback was the third for the Cards in six Sunday double headers. They split two others and swept one.

A pair of former mates—Bobby Blatter and Walker Cooper—beat the Cardinals yesterday. Blatter scored the only run as the Giants won the opener 1-0, then homered in the 11th inning of the nightcap to give the New Yorkers a 7-6 decision.

Earlier in the afterpiece, Walker Cooper, for whom Giant President Horace Stoneham paid the Cards $175,000 last winter, slammed a home run with the bases full.

Pitching Good
One run was all Big Bill Voiselle needed as he became the first hurler to blank the Cards since 1921—where there were nine—have there been so few vehicles in the race at the finish.

Tests Inadequate
Rex Mays, Glendale, Calif., American racing champion who was forced out by mechanical difficulty, said the drivers "did not have time to test their cars before the race and so they didn't know just how bad they were."

Frank Kurts, Glendale, Calif., builder, expressed the view that materials for essential parts, such as transmissions, "simply were unobtainable."

From Johnny Rae, Los Angeles mechanic with the Joel Thorne team and one of the Robson's pit men, came the observation that bearing materials were "impossible to get."

George Barringer, veteran Indianapolis pilot also knocked out by mechanical trouble, said "everybody started with a green car because we didn't have time to test them."

Jimmy Jackson, Indianapolis driver who took second place in the race, also agreed on that score with the observation, "bad weather kept us from making enough tests."

YESTERDAY'S STARS

ED STEVENS and DUE WALKER, Dodgers—STEVENS drove in both runs against Cincinnati in 11th inning 2-1 opening win; WALKER singled home Ed Stanky for 1-0 triumph in afterpiece.

BILL VOISELLE and BOBBY BLATTNER, Giants—VOISELLE outpitched St. Louis' HOWIE POLLET 1-0; BLATTNER smashed 11th inning home run to win nightcap 7-6.

BALDWIN-WALLACE FAVORED TO COP OHIO TRACK TITLE

Delaware To Be Scene of Mythical Ohio College Meet Saturday

By HAROLD HARRISON
Associated Press Sports Writer

The unofficial Ohio college track champion will be crowned at Delaware Saturday with Baldwin-Wallace's 1945 Ohio conference champions, Miami's Redskins and Ohio university ranked high among the favorites.

Virtually every college in the state which has had a track team this year, is expected to enter Ohio Wesleyan's annual All-Ohio meet.

Baldwin-Wallace, sparked by three record-breaking performances by Harrison Dillard, ran away with the Ohio Conference title Saturday. The Yellowjackets more than doubled the count on second place Toledo, scoring 63 points to 25½ for the Rockets.

Dillard Spectacular
Dillard first lowered the 100-yard dash mark from 9.8 seconds to 9.7 seconds. In the next event he trimmed the 120-yard high hurdle mark from 14.8 seconds to 14.6 seconds. But he saved his finest performance for last.

That was when he skimmed over the 220-yard low hurdles in 22.8 seconds, reportedly the fastest time in that event in this country since the war and just three-tenths of a second off the world mark.

Baldwin-Wallace also grabbed off first places in the high jump, 440-yard dash, shot put and the mile relay.

Trailing B-W and Toledo in the final point standing were: Akron 25, Case 22, Oberlin 20, Oberlin 14, Mount Union 12, Denison 10½, Kenyon 10, Ashland 9, Wooster 6, Heidelberg 4, Marietta 2 and Capital 1.

Ohio University served notice its title hopes can't be taken lightly by swamping Bowling Green in a dual meet, 73 to 49. The Bobcats took eight firsts and nine seconds and only in the field events were they outscored by Bowling Green.

Don Otten of Bowling Green, better known for his basketball ability, broke the field record in the discus with a heave of 145 feet, one inch.

Miami also figures in the All-Ohio ratings by reason of its fine performances in winning the college division championship at the Purdue indoor relays and an outdoor dual victory over Purdue.

SALEM A. C. DROPS SECOND LOOP FRAY

Marlboro's Early Lead Withstands Salem Flurries

A splendid stint of relief work by Pitcher Wilson, who replaced starting hurler "Hoppy" Hampton in the third inning, went for naught yesterday at Sunset park in Alliance when the Salem A. C. dropped its second Eastern Ohio loop fracas in three starts, bowing to Marlboro, 8-5.

Marlboro skipped into a 2-0 edge in the opening stanza and went ahead to stay in the second frame after the Saemites had tied the count in the top half of the inning.

Hampton's prowess failed him in the third and the home club broke loose for three more tallies to cinch the game. Wilson replaced Hampton with two out in the third and completed the game, allowing only two more runs in his five and one-third inning "fireman's job."

Take Slugging Honors

Lamille, Marlboro pitcher, and Left Fielder Gopp shared slugging honors for the winners, each driving out three safeties in four trips to the plate while Tetlow compiled a similar mark for Salem, Gopp and Tetlow each had a double.

Salem collected only eight hits off Lamille who whiffed four batters and walked three. Wilson fanned eight men and gave up one pass while Hampton chalked up one "K" in the scorebook and walked one.

The local nine will aim to even its record for the season next Sunday when they trek to Dover to duel with the league leaders.

Inability To Win At Home Is Making It Tough For Cardinals

Brooklyn Picks Up 2 On Leaders As Giants Spill St. Louis Twice Yesterday

By JOE REICHLER

Associated Press Sports Writer

The St. Louis Cardinals, pre-season favorites in the National league, may wind up among the also-rans because of their inability to win at home.

Including yesterday's double loss to the New York Giants, which dropped them three and a half games behind pace-setting Brooklyn, the Cardinals have won only six of 15 games at Sportsman's park—a percentage of 40, and fully 190 points below their over-all pace.

Never has a pennant winner lost a majority of its home games. The three-time Cardinal champions of 1942-44, for instance, won 172 home games against 60 defeats for a .741 percentage. In '44 they grabbed 90 of 77 home engagements for a phenomenal .779 average.

Failure of the Cards to win at home has the baseball sages puzzled since the Cardinals have been little short of sensational on the road where they've triumphed in 17 of 24 contests.

Yesterday's twin setback was the third for the Cards in six Sunday double headers. They split two others and swept one.

A pair of former mates—Bobby Blattnier and Walker Cooper—beat the Cardinals yesterday. Blattnier scored the only run as the Giants won the opener 1-0, then homered in the 11th inning of the nightcap to give the New Yorkers a 7-6 decision.

Earlier in the afterpiece, Walker Cooper, for whom Giant President Horace Stoneham paid the Cards $175,000 last winter, slammed a home run with the bases full.

Pitching Good

One run was all Big Bill Voiselle needed as he became the first hurler to blank the Cards this year. Howie Pollet, who previously had whipped the Giants in nine of 10 meetings, matched Voiselle in every inning but the third. Here he gave up consecutive singles to Blattnier, Goody Rosen and Willard Marshall which netted the all-important ally.

Getting superlative pitching from co-called secondary hurlers—Les Webber, Art Herring and Hugh Casey—Brooklyn gained two full games on the Cards by defeating the Cincinnati Reds 2-1 and 1-0 before a crowd of 32,391, the season's largest at Crosley field.

Webber, although he needed help from Southpaw Vic Lombardi, outwitted Ed Heusser in the 11th inning. A leadoff triple by Galan and a single by Ed Stevens accounted for the winning run. Substituted Baseman Bobby Adams' sixth inning homer saved the Reds from a shutout.

Herring pitched hitless ball for five innings in the second game before he was lifted for a pinch hitter in the sixth after pulling a muscle in his arm. Casey continued the runless flinging, allowing only four hits. John Hettk pitched durable ball for the Reds but an first inning walk to Ed Stanky, an infield out and Dixie Walker's run-scoring single beat him.

American Rained Out

In the only American league game—the others having been rained out—the Detroit Tigers walked off Washington Senators 10-3 at Halstedhouse fanned 13. The brilliant Bengal southpaw doled out eight hits in becoming the first major league pitcher to win nine games.

He fanned every Senator batter at least once; twice he whiffed four in a row. Tiger outfielder Dick Wakefield, showing signs of snapping out of his season-long slump, slammed out four hits, including two doubles.

The Chicago Cubs split with Boston's Braves to move into a third place tie with the Reds. The Braves, fifth Mort Cooper notching his third win, won the opener 6-3 and the Cubs captured the nightcap 2-1 behind Claude Passeau, who registered his fourth victory.

Pittsburgh had to be satisfied with a split in its twin bill with the

Boudreau Chooses Hurlers for Mackmen

(By Associated Press)

PHILADELPHIA, June 3.—Manager Lou Boudreau of the Cleveland Indians nominated two of his front line hurlers, Charley (Red) Embree and Steve Gromek, for duty against the Philadelphia Athletics today in an attempt to shake the Tribe from seventh place.

Rain set back yesterday's scheduled doubleheader and permitted Boudreau to revise his pitching plans against the A's. Phil Maddison and Dick Fowler are expected to pitch for the Mackmen.

Bob Lemon, converted outfielder who was slated for his first starting assignment on the mound yesterday, will be given an opportunity to hurl a complete game later in the Eastern series, said Boudreau.

The Tribe, now one-half game out of sixth place and a full game behind fifth-place St. Louis, moves to Washington tomorrow with Bob Feller named to hurl the night-game opener of a three-contest series.

Store windows exhibit everything from thumb tacks to tractor parts. Sweden's famous handicraft work—her distinctive silver ornaments, her beautiful glassware—can be bought in abundance but at prices almost double pre-war levels.

There is plenty of ready-made clothing. An export ban prohibits tourists from taking out bolts of woolen goods or new shoes in quantity. Yet they can purchase anything they need for personal wear. They can also buy real leather luggage, fresh oranges and grapes, milk chocolate, Havana cigars, American or English cigarettes, and American whisky.

Women tourists used to bargain day battles for these are a little unnerved when they step up to a counter to ask for silk stockings and the sales lady merely asks, "how many pairs, please?"

One English bride and her husband told me:

"We've had our honeymoon in a department store here."

"What's it like in America?" they ask. "It must be exciting there."
